

...that it expects the government of Mexico, in accordance with the true intent and purpose of the negotiations of 1923, culminating in the recognition of the government of Mexico by this government, to respect in their entirety the acquired property rights of American citizens, which have been the subject of our discussion, and expects the Mexican government not to take any action under the laws in question and the regulations issued in pursuance thereof, which would operate, either directly or indirectly, to deprive American citizens of the full ownership, use and enjoyment of their said properties and property rights."

"Business Undertakings."
Leading up to this notice to the Mexican government of the future intentions of the United States in this affair are two paragraphs in which Mr. Kellogg calls Mexico to account for disregard of the understanding on which the Oregon government was recognized.

"No Decision to Modify."
After a further review of the entire correspondence, and especially after a careful examination of your excellency's note of Oct. 7, 1924, this government finds no occasion to modify any of the positions which it has heretofore taken, and desires to be understood as maintaining those positions with the utmost emphasis. Although they have all been clearly set forth in my previous communications, and therefore need not be here repeated, I deem it appropriate, in the light of the tenor and effect of your excellency's last note, to emphasize again the reservation made by the American commissioners and formally stated on the record by the Mexican commissioners acting in behalf of their government, at the meeting of Aug. 2, 1923, and to recall to mind the passage on that subject appearing in your excellency's note of March 27, 1924.

Mexico's Cripple Reply.
Under date of Nov. 17 Mexican Foreign Minister Saenz rejoined with a denial that the recognition extended by Washington to the Mexican government promises not to confiscate American properties made by the Mexican commissioners and President Obregon in the 1923 negotiations, and concluded his short note with the following: "My government on its part expects that your excellency will indicate the concrete cases in which the principles of international law may have been violated or may be violated in disregard of legitimate interests of American citizens, since in such cases it will be disposed to repair such violations."

Positions Defined, Results Awaited.
With the position of each government defined and Mexico put upon notice of the consequences of non-compliance, the situation now becomes one of watchful waiting. The confiscatory oil laws go into effect Jan. 1 next and the alien land laws applying to agricultural and mining properties held by foreigners are to become effective on Jan. 21.

Value of U. S. Properties.
The value of the American properties involved follows:
Mining and smelting, $300,000,000.
Oil lands and refineries, $475,000,000.
Agricultural lands and timber, $300,000,000.

County Loses Millions by Court Ruling on Taxes on Alien Insurance Companies

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Cook county tax spending bodies lost an amount variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 today in the United States Supreme court in a last case brought by the Hanover Fire Insurance company of New York against the late county treasurer, P. J. Carr.

The court reversed a finding of the Illinois state Supreme court and ruled that the imposition of a levy on net receipts of foreign insurance companies under the state law is an unfair discrimination in favor of domestic risk companies.

Cities Law of 1889.
Originally the Hanover Fire Insurance company sought an injunction to prevent Treasurer Carr from attempting to collect $10,678.50 which he claimed was due Cook county under the provisions of the state insurance law of 1889, providing for an assessment on the net receipts of foreign fire insurance companies on a 100 per cent basis, in addition to the license fees and other taxes which they, and domestic companies as well, were required to pay. Similar claims aggregating millions of dollars are pending against a dozen or more so-called "foreign" companies.

The city of Chicago, directly interested in the outcome of the suit, as was the board of education in the city and other tax spending bodies, intervened itself in the litigation and Leon M. Horowitz, assistant corporation counsel for the city, argued the case before the United States Supreme court when an appeal was taken from the state Supreme court's decision. In the opinion delivered today by Chief Justice Taft, the United States Supreme court upheld the contention that the special levy against foreign companies is a contravention of the federal constitution. The opinion reiterated the court's assertions in other cases that while a state may arbitrarily exclude businesses from the state or fix conditions under which business may be undertaken, the conditions may not infringe the guarantees in the federal constitution.

Question of Protection.
"We thus reach the question," says the opinion, "whether a corporation tax imposed upon foreign fire, marine, and inland navigation insurance companies on the net receipts of all its business, whether fire or casualty, is a denial of the equal protection of the laws when domestic insurance companies pay no taxes on their net receipts."

WONT REQUIRE REFUND.
The ruling of the Supreme court does not mean that the county will be obliged to make any refunds to insurance companies. It was stated last night. But the county and affiliated taxing bodies will not obtain the millions which would have accrued had the appeal been denied.

Filing of the original suit was based on a law passed nearly sixty years ago but which Assistant Corporation Counsel Horowitz said had never been enforced. A few years ago suits were started to enforce these collections. It is this suit that is now settled against the county. Had the ruling been adverse to them—one of the attorneys said—the effect "would have been the same as a confiscation involving millions of dollars."

the net receipts or what they were invested in. "It was this view, doubtless, which led to the acquiescence by the state authorities and the foreign insurance companies in such a construction of the state insurance law and in the practice under it. But an occupation tax imposed upon 100 per cent of the net receipts of foreign insurance companies admitted to do business in Illinois is a heavy discrimination in favor of domestic insurance companies of the same class and in the same business which pay only a tax on the assessment of personal property at a valuation to one-half of 60 per cent of the full value of the property. It is a denial of the equal protection of the laws."

HIS CONGRESS BACKS CALLES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Mexico City, Nov. 23.—Copies of the latest correspondence between United States Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg and Foreign Minister Aaron Saenz over the alien land and oil laws were given to the local press today. One important feature is the elimination from the Mexican note of the suggestion that the United States, if dissatisfied with the Mexican reply, might submit the controversy to The Hague tribunal.

COL. CARRINGTON CALLS BROTHER HOME BREAKER

Names His Golfing Kinsman Co-respondent.

Col. Edward C. Carrington yesterday named his brother, Campbell Carrington, prominent New York attorney, as co-respondent in his divorce suit against Mrs. Anna Walsh Carrington, 344 West 14th street, New York, which is to be tried in a Chicago court.

Attorney Carrington, who resides at the New York Athletic club, is rated a millionaire, as is his brother. He is a friend of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, well known as an amateur golfer and president of director of several eastern companies. Col. Carrington, who has a legal residence in Chicago but spends much of his time where, was a candidate for United States senator from Maryland ten years ago.

Applies to Wife's Suit.
Col. Carrington made his charges in filing an answer to the petition of his wife for $2,000 monthly alimony. Through his attorney, Frank J. Madden, he charged that relations between his wife and brother caused business associations of the two brothers to be ended and divorces proceedings to begin between Col. Carrington and his wife. After a telephone talk with Mrs. Carrington, who is in New York, her local lawyer called Col. Carrington's charges "a vindictive falsehood." The lawyer added:

F. BACARDI, RUM MAKER, DIES; FIRM MADE $50,000,000

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Fifty million dollars is the estimated wealth brought to the distilling company of Facundo Bacardi and his brother, Emilio, by the famous product known as Bacardi rum. Facundo died last night of arterio sclerosis. Emilio died a few years ago.

Their first still was established at Santiago de Cuba in 1862. It was a small affair, and the brothers were without much capital, but they distilled the best rum they could from sugar cane molasses. The popular tale of the first equipment of the Bacardi distillery is that it consisted of "a burro, a pack saddle, two kegs, and a wash boiler."

Don Facundo was 84 years of age. He gave large sums to the poor and was popular with his employees, who called him "a great and good man."

Three hands entered the butcher shop of Louis Goldstein, 1848 South Kedzie avenue, last night, locked him in a refrigerator, and escaped with $22.

BUSINESS POLICE, SAVING MILLIONS, LAUDED BY JUDGE

Kavanagh Talks Before Credit Men.

A new law enforcement agent—the policeman of commerce—whose duty is to prosecute the dishonest business man, the professional bankrupt, the financial statement forger, was presented to the public last night at a meeting of the National Association of Credit Men in the Hotel La Salle.

These business police have been working, now for more than a year and investigators are scattered over the country. It was revealed. Millions of dollars have been saved annually to American business. It was declared, and greater benefits are expected to follow.

Seek More Chicago Cash. Chicago, which has contributed $71,000 to the credit protection fund of the national association, was urged by Lawrence Whitty, chairman of the fund, and A. H. Fabbri, president of the association, to subscribe its quota of $200,000.

The national quota of $1,750,000 to be contributed by business houses will underwrite the department for five years, it was stated. It was announced that $1,400,000 has been raised.

This new development in modern business was praised by Superior Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh, criminologist, who spoke to the credit men at a banquet in the grand ballroom of the hotel. He declared that every business house should contribute to the fund so commercial crime might be reduced to a minimum.

Find Special Service Necessary. The need of commercial police, Mr. Whitty explained, was revealed after the credit men had been chiefly responsible for the passage of the bankruptcy act, the false statement law, and bad check laws. The laws alone meant nothing, he declared.

So a nation-wide organization of investigators was formed. It is divided into three divisions, eastern, central, and western. The central division, with offices at Chicago, is under the direction of J. Elliott Byrne, former assistant United States district attorney here. He has investigators working for him here, in Minneapolis, Detroit, Cleveland, and other cities.

Watch Commercial Failures. When a business fails, the commercial police immediately get on the job. Sometimes they discover concealed assets and creditors are saved thousands of dollars. Their investigation often reveals manipulated inventories, concealed liabilities, and capitalized expenses, resulting in misrepresentation of the debtors' affairs in published financial statements and balance sheets.

Then, the persons responsible for such acts are indicted and Mr. Whitty gave some striking figures showing what the organization has done since it was founded in June, 1925. More than 1,000 cases have been investigated, 131 convictions have been obtained, and 358 persons have been indicted, he said.

The map shows Coleman, Alta., near where ten miners were trapped in a mine by explosion. Three bodies have been found. Little hope is held for the other miners entombed in the earth.

10 TRAPPED IN CANADIAN MINE; 3 BODIES FOUND

Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Ten miners are believed to have been killed by deadly gas following explosion early today in the McGillivray Creek mine near Coleman, west of here. Fire was sweeping the workings tonight, preventing rescue work. Recurring explosions prevented a search for bodies after two had been removed.

Twenty-eight men were in the mine when the gas and dust exploded. Eighteen made their way safely to the surface. Rescue crews later removed one body, found two others, and announced that little hope was entertained that any of the seven men unaccounted for would be found alive.

How Fund Is Raised. The Credit Protection Fund asks business firms to subscribe at the rate of $100 for each $100,000 in accounts receivable. During its first year of operations, the recovered in concealed assets returned to bankrupt estates were $410,000, more than twice the money expended by the organization in the same period.

P. J. Carr Leaves No Will; Prepare Estate Estimate. Patrick J. Carr, late county treasurer, left no will, it was learned yesterday from his successor and former assistant, Jacob Lindheimer. Lawyers are now preparing an estimate of the value of Mr. Carr's estate which will be filed soon in the Probate court together with a petition of the widow, Mrs. Agnes Carr, for letters of administration.

U. S. ATTORNEY OLSON REBUKED BY THREE JUDGES

Instruct Grand Jury on Proper Procedure.

mission of crime shall be held to answer to the charge; and on the other hand a duty to the citizen to see that he is not subjected to prosecution upon accusations having no better foundation than public clamor or private malice.

The District Attorney. The government has appointed the district attorney to represent its interests in the prosecution of parties charged with the commission of public offenses against the laws of the United States. As I told you before, at the beginning of your term, he will appear before you from time to time and present the accusations which the government may desire to have considered by you. He will point out to you the laws which the government deems to have been violated, and will subpoena for your examination such witnesses as he may consider important, and also such other witnesses.

No sooner had the import of the judicial statement circulated about the federal building than reports became current that Olson, angry and distressed, was about to resign. When pressed for comment, the district attorney handed out the following, on neatly typewritten sheets:

"I have no feud with the mayor and I have never attacked him. I have always welcomed his fullest cooperation, and still do. So far as the present grand jury is concerned, I have never appeared before it, nor met until today the foreman or any member of it. Neither did I prepare or direct the presentation of evidence upon which it based its indictments. If, in the performance of its duties, it has been actuated by any but the pursuit of motives I know nothing of it. That previous federal grand juries have always voted indictments only where the evidence warranted it is proved by the fact that during three years the convictions were 4,926 and the acquittals only 51.

Clears Col. Jacques. In connection with the resignation of Col. Jacques as the foreman of the grand jury, upon which he will continue to serve, though not at the head, Judge Carpenter dictated the following statement:

"The situation has developed so that it seems necessary for me to ask the representatives of newspapers here, whatever their guild is, and however reluctant they are to say anything about their fellows, I think the newspapers of Chicago owe to Col. Jacques an open statement that what has come out in this afternoon's Journal is an absolute falsehood. And if the newspapers will not publish it I will give it out over the radio." The statement referred to was to the effect that Col. Jacques had been forced off the jury.

Judge Wilkerson, enlarging upon the statements of Judge Carpenter from time to time, criticized the district attorney upon his "pronouncements concerning pending cases."

The grand jury will resume deliberation today under the foremanship of Charles Watson, of Maple Park.

FATS WIFE $20,000 ALIBION. Raymond G. Hancock, 3730 West Ohio street, real estate broker with office at 35 South Dearborn street, paid his wife, Mrs. Antonette E. ALLIED RULE OF GERMAN TROOPS WILL END SOON

France Prepares to Let League Handle Job.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Early withdrawal of allied control of Germany's military affairs, to be succeeded by periodic supervision by the league of nations, is now looked upon as certain in French official circles. The French and German governments, it was said by a high authority today, have virtually agreed as to the means whereby this change may be made.

Only a few details still remain to be settled, concerning the dismantling of the Koenigsberg fortifications, but so much progress has been made toward settlement that the question is no longer regarded as an obstacle. It was even intimated by those well informed that a complete accord will be made known at Geneva during the sessions of the league council.

Simultaneously with the hopeful announcement here that the military question soon would be smoothed out, news came from Berlin that Foreign Secretary Stresemann, addressing the Reichstag, demanded in behalf of his country the withdrawal of the allied military control commission. His remarks, however, were not taken seriously in French circles, where they were looked upon as intended merely for home consumption.

Says Germany Meets Obligations.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Germany unequivocally demands withdrawal of the allied military control commission, Foreign Minister Stresemann declared in the Reichstag today.

"We have proven our readiness to fulfill all the obligations arising from the Versailles treaty," said Dr. Stresemann. "Therefore we expect the other governments also to hesitate no longer and to draw the only possible conclusion from this situation."

"It would be incompatible with our entry into the league of nations and the operation of the Locarno agreements to make the minor technical questions still at issue an excuse for withholding the German people with a psychological weight such as continuation of the foreign control commission constitutes."

Will Accept League Inquiries.

Concerning the suggestion that the league of nations take over the functions of the control commission, Dr. Stresemann said Germany was not opposed to league investigations for special purposes as sanctioned by the treaty of Versailles, but that it holds that permanent control is unjustified.

At the same time, he said, it was essential to the interests of equality within the league that other nations also disarm.

Dr. Stresemann declared the German government never would allow interference by the so-called patriotic societies with the government's course of action and promised that no connection would be permitted between them and the army. These societies, it has been charged in various quarters are merely disguised militaristic formations.

The federal and state governments are sharply watching these organizations, the foreign minister said.

Asks Patience in Rhineland.

Patience was the counsel which Dr. Stresemann urged with respect to the liberation of the Rhineland.

The Treaty negotiations for a rapprochement between Germany and France cannot be realized quickly, the foreign minister said, pointing out that "third powers were involved in the conversations especially with reference to the sale of German railway bonds."

"Where there's a will there's a way," Dr. Stresemann added, closing with an appeal for broadminded handling by both German and France of the question of Franco-German understanding.

FORMER ALLY OF WU GOES OVER TO CANTONESE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) HANKOW, China, Nov. 23.—A consular telegram from Ichang reports that Gen. Yang-sen former ally of Wu Peifu of Peking, who controls the western portion of Hupeh province and the eastern part of Szechwan province, definitely has gone over to the Cantonese.

He has 50,000 troops, including 12,000 around Shansi province, near which fighting has been reported.

Gen. Yang-sen's defection gives all Szechwan to the Cantonese, also clearing the flanks and giving freedom of action against Marshal Wu Peifu's forces in Honan province.

HURT TRYING TO SAVE GIRL FROM TRUCK; 1 DEATH

In an attempt to save a 3 year old girl from being struck by a truck yesterday, John Salvin, 60 years old, 905 South Racine avenue, was severely injured. John Clark, 2123 North Kedzie avenue, the driver, swerved his truck, avoiding the child, Elvira Monico, also of 905 South Racine avenue, and Salvin was knocked down. He suffered four fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. The accident occurred near his home.

The death of Edwin Warren, 60 years old, 2970 Federal street, colored, raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to $62. Warren was injured Nov. 14 when struck by a taxicab while at 38th street and Michigan boulevard.

STAGE FOLK TO HONOR MEMORY OF HERO OF '76

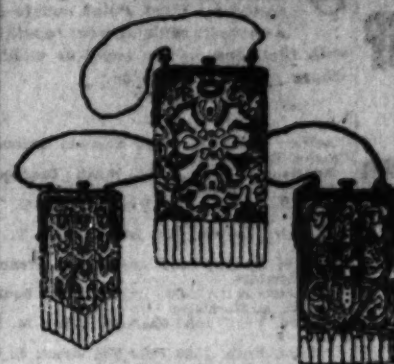

Members of the theatrical profession in Chicago, both actors and executives, will hold memorial services on Dec. 3 at the grave of David Kennison, who at the time of his death in 1855 was the oldest living person in America associated with the stage.

Kennison, the last surviving participant in the Boston Tea party, came to Chicago in 1845. He was at one time a dispatch bearer for George Washington and served also in the war of 1812. In 1848 he caused to be published in the Chicago Democrat an announcement of a benefit performance for himself in Dr. Mooney's museum on Lake street.

He related that he was nearly 112 years old and that his pension was only $8 a month, not enough to care for him.

The body of Mr. Kennison was buried in Lincoln park, opposite Wisconsin street, then a part of a cemetery. Later all the bodies interred there, except his, were moved. A stone was placed above the Kennison grave to attest the esteem in which he was held both as a soldier and a citizen. The ceremonies on Dec. 3 will usher in the observance of the centennial year of vaudeville in the United States.

FRANCE SENDS FLEET TO KEEP AN EYE ON ITALY

Ships in Morocco Waters to Command Riviera.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, Nov. 23.—France has taken notice of Italy's supposed designs on the French Riviera, and has ordered its Atlantic fleet to Moroccan waters to keep the eye on the coast that it is not even taking the least precautions.

This was revealed in the chamber of deputies corridors today after the meeting of the commission on foreign affairs, where Foreign Minister Briand made an impromptu exposition of his policies.

"The government is following a program of peace in the spirit and letter of Locarno, with the result that our relations with our neighbors are vastly improved," he said.

But does the foreign minister know that the Italians are making hostile gestures on our frontier?" asked one deputy.

The grizzled old prophet of peace refused to answer.

But in the corridors two cabinet ministers told all comers: "Proper precautions on the Italian frontier have been taken." They revealed that half the French fleet, which usually hovers on the northern coasts, had been ordered to Moroccan waters, where it would be close enough to the Riviera without seeming to be a threat.

Despite the alarmist reports to which the fleet's movements have given rise, this Tribune is assured that no soldiers have been sent to the border.

Sent 200 Gunboats.
The French fleet there is not of the Italian army, but of the Fascist groups on both sides of the frontier. To meet this menace, the ministry of the interior has reinforced the civil gendarmerie at Menton and Nice by 200 men. The ministry of war, unwilling to become involved, is sitting tight.

"We can expect much from a continuation of the rapprochement begun at Thoiry," said M. Briand, at the same time denying the German claims that the entire Thoiry program was predicated on the evacuation of the Rhineland by the French.

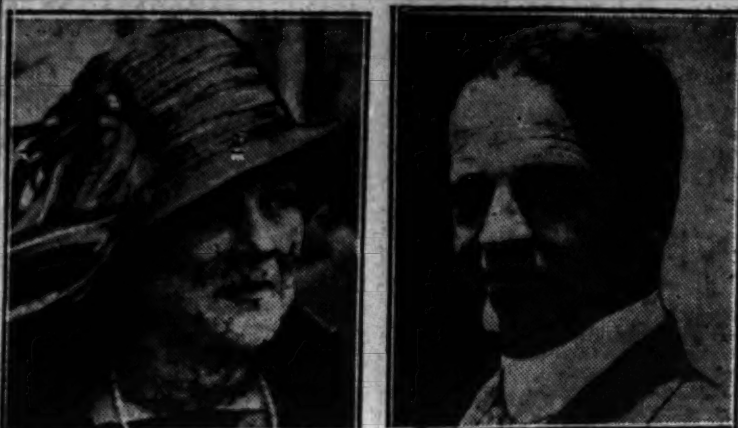

"To continue in the path mapped out at Thoiry, we do not necessarily have to evacuate the occupied zone immediately," he replied to nationalist critics.

Chamberlain Maps Parley.
That a conference between Foreign Minister Briand and the Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini, is at least in a projected state, was formally denied by Quind d'Orsay tonight. But it was learned authoritatively that Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, acting as intermediary, is arranging a three man conference between himself, Sir. Mussolini and M. Briand, possibly at Geneva on the eve of the league of nations council session.

Mr. Austen will come to Paris on Dec. 4 and if he succeeds, both he and M. Briand will proceed to the Geneva meeting with Premier Mussolini on Dec. 6, a day before the council opens.

B. G. A. APPLAUDS JARECKI VICTORY; ASKS FOR FUNDS

The Better Government association gave thanks at a luncheon yesterday for the re-election of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Secretary E. J. Davis also called for contributions, declaring that it has been costing about $45,000 a year to run the reform organization.

The meeting was held at the Morrison hotel.

Four sets of resolutions were adopted. The first commended United States District Attorney Edwin A. Olson and his first assistant, Hope Thompson, for the recent indictment of alleged prohibition law violators. It also commended Mayor Dever for closing "a large number of joints" and called on him to renew these activities.

The second resolution called on the sanitary district board to cut its payroll. The third assailed State's Attorney Croys and blamed him for "the breakdown in law enforcement during the last six years."

The fourth commended the Circuit court judges for electing county park commissioners by open ballot.

VATICAN DENIES MRS. VANDERBILT IS GIVEN DECREE

[Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times.]
ROME, Nov. 23.—A report that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt brought plea for the annulment of her marriage was denied by the Rota. Diligent inquiries made in other quarters also failed to find any confirmation of the report.

Denial Also by Mrs. Vanderbilt.
PARIS, Nov. 23.—[U. P.]—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, the former Virginia Fair, today said she was not seeking annulment of her marriage, nor a divorce in Rome, Paris, or New York.

Incorrect, Daughter Says.
New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—"It is absolutely incorrect," was the statement made today by Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II, on learning of the report from Rome that the Rota had annulled or been asked to annul the marriage of her parents. William K. Vanderbilt II said he had no comment to make on the reports of the annulment of his marriage of 1899. He knew nothing of the matter beyond what he read in the newspapers, he said. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt have been living apart for a number of years.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The little black satchel, in which $100,000 of Edward L. Doheny's money was brought to Washington to give to Albert B. Fall just before the naval reserve oil leases were signed in 1921, faded to brown today in the opening attack made by the defense in the government's conspiracy case against these two notables.

"It was just a brown leather satchel," said Mr. Doheny's attorney, Frank J. Hogan, who took nearly all day to explain to the jury the circumstances leading up to this transaction, which was characterized earlier by government counsel, Owen J. Roberts, as bribery.

The complexion of other features of the case, which has covered acres of printed paper in discussion during the last two years, has changed nearly all day. Mr. Hogan was elaborately engaged in setting the responsibility for the alleged fraudulent contracts upon former Secretary of the Navy Denby and subordinates of the navy and interior departments. Mr. Fall's mild gray features were almost erased from the picture.

Japan's Mobilization Plan.
The motive for it all, according to Mr. Hogan, was the uneasiness of the navy department over the unprotected Pacific coast, the knowledge they had of the mobilization plans of Japan against the Philippines and Hawaii, and the necessity of putting oil where it could be used in emergency, rather than keeping it a mile deep under the California desert, forty miles from the sea. Mr. Doheny and Mr. Fall were rich patriots that they got to get a congressional medal instead of being dragged into a criminal court.

One new point brought out by Mr. Hogan was that Fall had an agreement with President Harding to resign March 1, 1922; and that when the $100,000 loan was made Mr. Doheny knew this and did not expect that Fall would be in authority much longer. Later, Mr. Hogan said, when Will Hays resigned from the cabinet, the President prevailed upon Fall to stay another year.

The distinguished array of government prosecutors appeared unmoved by the avalanche of words from Mr. Hogan and the imprisoned jury sat sleepily or dazed through much of it. Several technical witnesses were heard and the case was in full swing by nightfall.

Gold Mirrors of Capital.

There is a vast distinction, it appears, between the uncensored, one-sided investigations before the great gold mirrors of the capitol and the actual bringing of the lamp of truth

FAILURE OF NEW YORK G. O. P. IS SEEN IN HIGH HAT POLICIES

New York, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—High hats of the Republican party in New York state were the target today for verbal missiles hurled by John A. Stewart, president of the Republican League of Clubs.

He told the organization at a luncheon that the party could never capture votes and voters, "as Al Smith does, until it becomes more human."

"I quite agree with Attorney General Ottinger when he says the Republican party in this state is 'too much silk hat and frock coats'—in other words, too much 'up stage'."

The ingratitude of his friends broke President Harding's heart, and "he died a martyr to that friendship," said Mr. Stewart.

The Alaskan trip of Mr. Harding, he said, was begun at a time when the President was on the point of breaking with Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

Stewart said that he suggested to President Harding that the appointment of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general might be misconstrued by the people.

Into this white pillared Greek temple, the historic old city hall of Washington, now the district courthouse, it is guarded by a nude bronze angel and by a gaunt statue of Lincoln.

The utmost decorum prevails, and admission to the court is by ticket. Justice A. A. Hoehling, who presides, is a stern, firm mouthed person, who wears a black gown and is escorted to the bench by a Negro attendant of impressive dignity. The balliffs frown at the least whisper.

Everything must be proved here, even the fact that Mr. Fall was made secretary of the interior by the late President Harding. No rumors or second hand, hearsay evidence. And the minds of the jurors are supposed to be tabula rasa, the clean slate of infancy, so far as prejudice in this case is concerned.

Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the United States geological survey, was the first witness. Examined by Mr. Roberts, he testified that he had visited the Elk Hills oil fields, known as naval reserve No. 1 and No. 2 now, and had advocated as early as 1907 their withdrawal from entry, and later their withdrawal for the exclusive use of the navy. At the time of the withdrawal he had estimated that No. 1 field contained 250,000,000 barrels of oil.

On June 1, 1921, he testified, he and H. Foster Bain, former director of the bureau of mines, had written a joint note declaring that further field development was not warranted because of the overproduction of oil, and that natural underground storage was best. This is far from that ideal government which philosophers have advocated for centuries. It appears, for Dr. Smith and his experts were not called upon by Mr. Fall to advise him in this grave and expert matter of the new leases, which were made, it is contended by the government, at an inopportune time and subjected the navy to the loss of ninety per cent of its oil land.

On cross examination, Dr. Smith admitted that the Standard and Pacific companies were drilling in their lands adjoining the reserves and this would have a "slight effect" on the oil immediately adjoining.

Emphasizes Danger to U. S.

It is the defense contention that the oil was a pool under the surface of the earth and that the first drillers to tap this pool, even outside the reserve would get at least 20 per cent of the oil. And this was one of the reasons that the leases were granted at that time. This and the element of national danger in the direction of Japan, a subject emphasized by Mr. Hogan.

Mr. Roberts asserted that the government would show that behind all this show of patriotism lay the bold plot of Fall to overturn the naval reserve policy, get his hands on the oil lands and deliver them to his friends, and that the Doheny oil companies, by Mr. Doheny's own statement, expected to make $100,000,000 out of the transaction.

What Doheny was really after, he said, was the preferential leases of the Pearl Harbor contract. Early in November, 1921, he said, Fall discussed with Doheny his own financial needs in connection with the purchase of the Harris ranch in New Mexico, and on Nov. 30 Doheny got the money from his son's bank account in New York and sent his son to Washington to give the currency to Fall.

Fall did not tell the truth, he said, before the investigating committee, and sought in every possible way to conceal this transaction, that Fall handled the transaction and ordered no information to go out.

Wanted War Plans Secret.
This latter point was met by the defense with the statement that secrecy was due to the request of the secretary of the navy, who did not want to disclose war plans.

The age and long friendship of the defendants was dwelt upon, and the $100,000 pictured as a purely private transaction. It was a demand note and with interest to be fixed by Doheny. In order to protect Mr. Fall in the event of sudden death of the Dohenys, the note was torn and the signature given to Mrs. Doheny. Both pieces were carefully preserved and, it was stated, secured by ample property values would be collected.

Several technical witnesses testified to documents. Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, who instituted the naval reserve policy, is to be an early witness.

KAISER LEAVES HIS BED; DANGER BELIEVED OVER

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Former Emperor William of Germany, who was confined to his bed over the week-end from the effects of a cold, was able to get up at noon today.

Rheumatic pains from which he was suffering had abated and he was believed fully out of danger.

His illness was attributed to his tramping about the rain soaked grounds of Doorn house before he had fully recovered from a cold of a week ago. What is variously described as rheumatism or an attack of lumbago resulted.

INDICT EVANSTON GIRL WIFE WHO KILLED BETRAYER

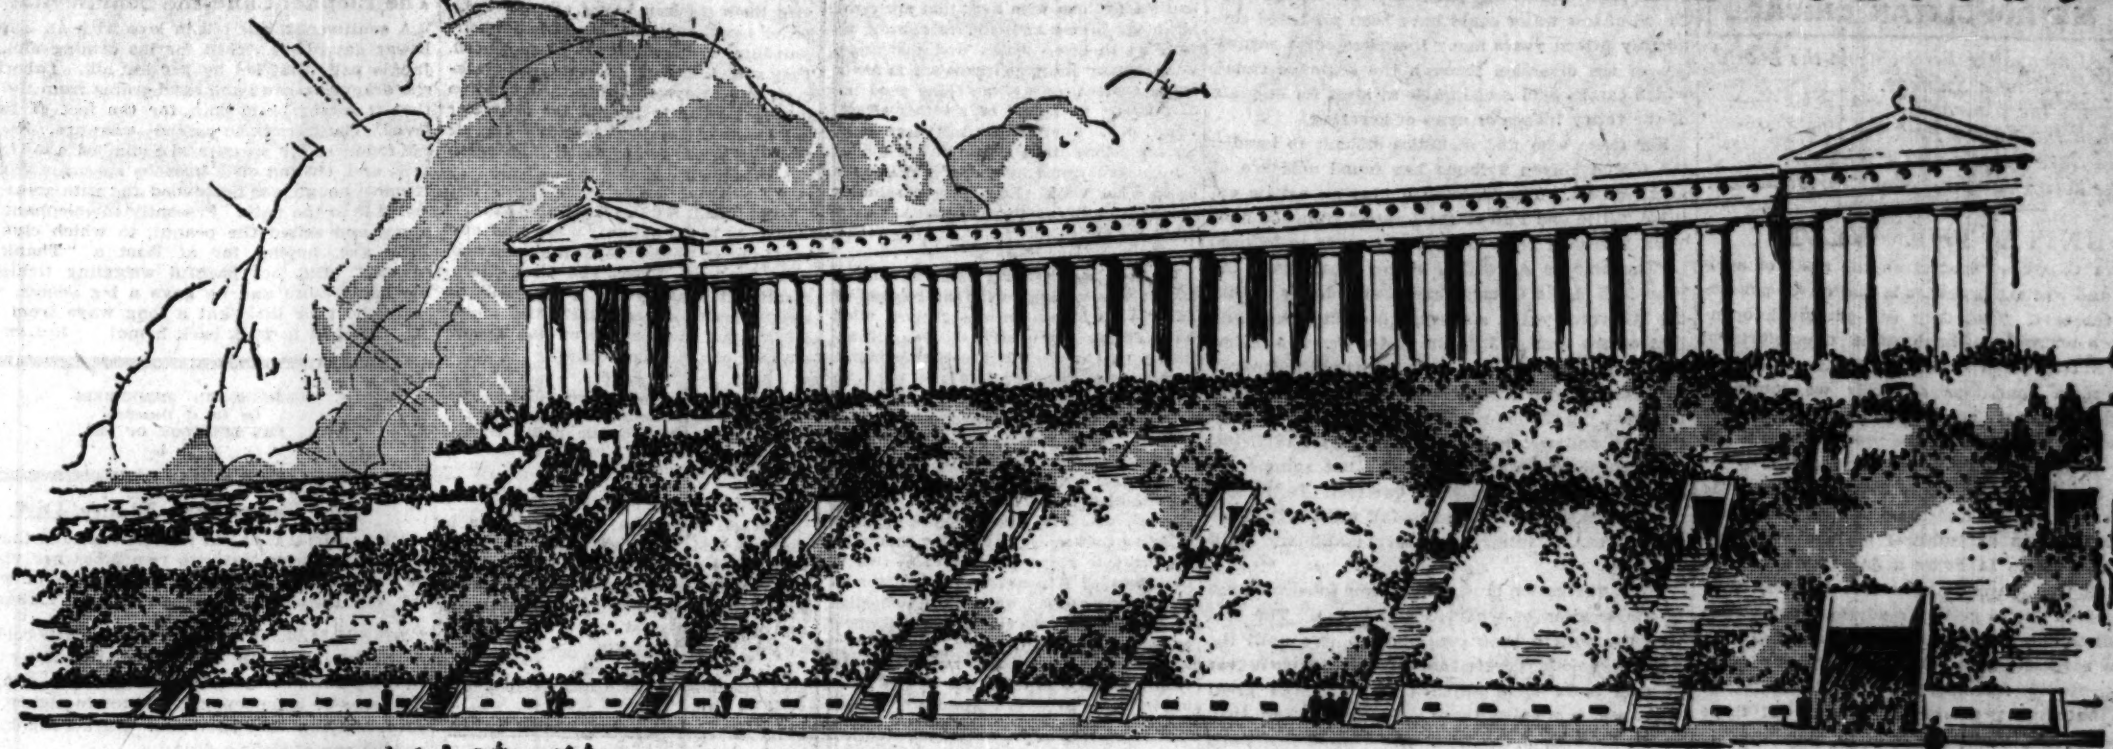

New York, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The Bronx grand jury returned an indictment charging murder in the first degree today against Catherine De Nino of Evanston, Ill., the 16 year wife of Rocco De Nino who shot and killed Luigi Fino, of Bergen avenue and 149th street on the night of Nov. 11.

Evidence was furnished the grand jury that Fino betrayed the girl when she was 12 years old and that a child was born to her in July, 1924.

After she married De Nino, who knew of her unfortunate experience and took her to Chicago to live, Fino wrote letters to her husband and demanding money under threat of spreading the scandal in the Bronx and in his new home. De Nino cast off his wife, who came to New York and killed her betrayer.

Mrs. Iona Regier Shortt, 4900 Lake Park avenue, who had filed suit for $50,000 for loss of the affection of her husband, Lloyd Wellington Shortt, failed to appear yesterday in Superior Judge Joseph R. Davis' court when the case was called and the suit was dismissed.

NUMBER ONE OF A SERIES ON GREATER CHICAGO

A Great Arena for Sport, Music and Pageantry —second largest in the world

THE Soldier Field Stadium on the Lake Front is a link in the "Lake Front Improvement." It holds 100,000 people, with a permanent seating capacity of 60,000 and a terrace bleacher capacity of 40,000 additional. Other famous fields compare with it as follows:

Sesquicentennial Stadium, Philadelphia	125,000
Soldier Field Stadium	100,000
Ohio University Stadium	90,000
Colosseum Amphitheatre, Ancient Rome	87,000
Franklin Field, Philadelphia	85,500
Yale Bowl	80,000
University of Illinois Memorial Stadium	67,000
New York Polo Field	55,000

The central arena is over 1,000 feet long and 300 feet wide, covering seven acres of ground.

The running track circumscribing the arena is considered to be one of the fastest in the world, and, within the track limits, there is room for football, soccer, hockey, cricket and polo.

Under the stadium structure are great halls suitable for indoor sports, with locker and shower facilities.

Soldier Field offers a fitting arena for great popular pageants, civic celebrations, musical events of a magnitude never before attempted in Chicago.

Protecting Estates derived from Chicago's Wealth

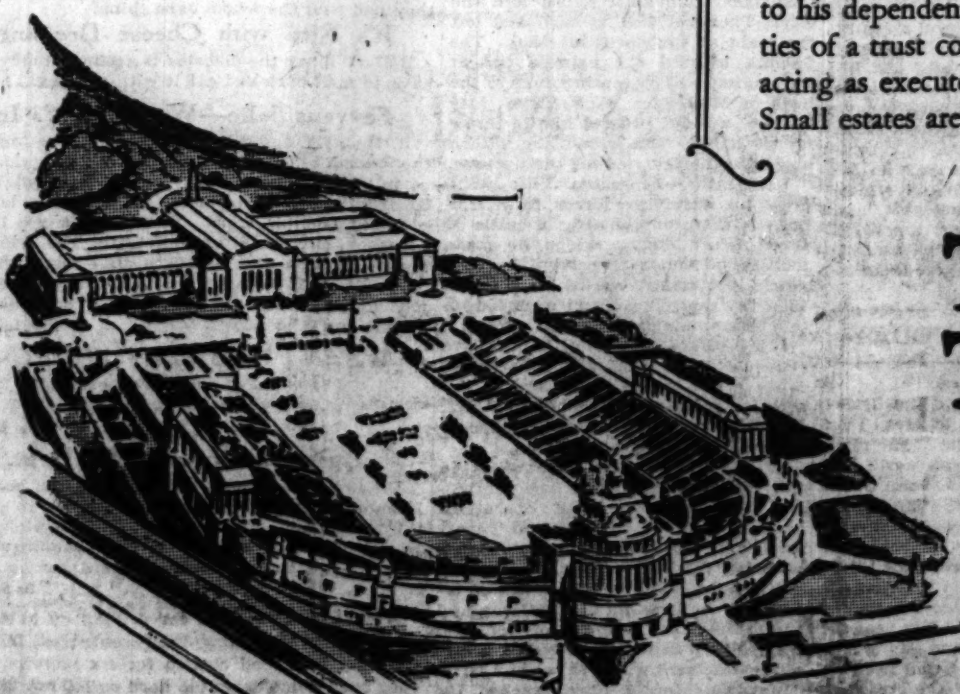

Chicago has become one of the richest cities in the world. The value of its taxable property alone runs into billions. These figures represent private wealth, not of a few but of innumerable citizens who have helped to build up Chicago.

The conservation of this wealth is vital to the owner and his family. He owes it to himself and to his dependent heirs to assure them income after he is gone. This often requires the expert facilities of a trust company. The Northern Trust Company has had nearly forty years' experience in acting as executor-trustee. It has been identified with many of Chicago's most prominent estates. Small estates are given equal care and attention.

UNITE THE WEST.

Senator Capper's remarks on the state of agriculture and western problems is matter for pondering in the east. That they will get much open-minded attention we have some uncomfortable doubt. But for such easterners as are willing to take western conditions seriously we commend especially what Mr. Capper says about the temper of the westerner regarding the property he is not sharing in the degree he thinks he should.

"The farmer's dollar," says Senator Capper, "is worth only 83 cents. And these 83 cent dollars are obtained from an agricultural system which requires from 13 to 14 hours a day of work. But despite all that, farmers note that industry with its eight hour day is getting ready to cut the week to five days, and that the change already has been made in several plants. Naturally the producers are interested in learning just how the industrial life of the country is able to perform all these miracles and at the same time to maintain the highest living standard the world has ever known. But there is not, so far as I can learn, any desire to take these good things away from the people of the cities. Indeed, farmers like to see a high standard of property along the Great White Way, for under such conditions they are able to sell the maximum amount of food of good quality to the folks there. But they do feel that the better living standards should be passed around."

That is the spirit of the west in the main. There is, of course, the type of agrarian agitator whose only idea of bettering conditions of the class he purports to represent is to take property away from some one else. But though this type is vociferous and prominent in politics, it does not really represent the temper or policy of the west, which realizes fully the interdependence of east and west and more clearly, we think, than the east. The farmers think and they want American industry to prosper, but they want their fair share of that prosperity, and they ask the east to do a little thinking themselves on this subject of interdependence. The foundations and sources of the immense wealth and prosperity of the east are chiefly here in the mid-continent, and the east realizes that too little which the west observes.

Thus far we have relied too much upon the logic of the situation. But we are beginning to see that the Lord helps him who helps himself. The need for united and determined effort on the part of the west is coming home to us. This Tribune's proposal, to which Senator Capper refers, for an all-western council or association to bring all western economic interests together for the formulation of western policies and the support of common western interests, ought not to lapse. The east is sectionally self-conscious as the west is not, and it is able to protect and advance its special interests because it is intelligently aware of them and well organized for making its strength felt. The west does not pull together. It is divided and often helps to defeat its common interests. That should be remedied without delay. It can be, and the results will be highly beneficial to the whole nation, east as well as west, north as well as south. The west is moderate and fair minded, loud mouthed politicians notwithstanding, but it will not flinch at consideration for its large needs until it learns to put its strength back of its demands.

THE POISON GAS PROTOCOL.

Once more—this time by a formal representation to President Coolidge—the American Legion has protested against ratification by the United States of the Geneva protocol forbidding the use of poison gas in warfare.

The advice to refrain from the protocol comes straight from men who know of their own experience what poison gas is. No weapon of war is humane or it would not be a weapon of war, but as weapons of poison gas is humane. Members of the Legion know this. Paradoxically, it is the so-called humanitarian who would do away with poison gas.

For a very practical reason the United States should not agree to abandon poison gas. The United States is rich in chemical resources, in chemists, in chemical industries. It is equipped beyond other nations to turn out large quantities of poison gas in case of war.

Poison gas possesses this advantage over other weapons: It can be experimented with in secret. This very characteristic makes it the weapon least amenable to regulation by treaty. One cannot check up on all the test tubes and gas containers in all the laboratories of a signatory country as one can on naval dockyards or artillery proving grounds.

Above all, legislation banning any weapon is futile and useless. There was sensible humanitarianism in agreeing to cut down the numbers of capital ships, as was done at the Washington conference. A battleship is not built in days or weeks, but in many months. Gas, on the other hand, as we have said, can be evolved in time of peace and produced in quantity at short notice, and it is too optimistic to believe that nations which required centuries of civilization to fit them for the barbarities of the last war have so changed within eight years as not to resort to any such readily produced weapon which will give them a chance to win. Gas, despite the fact that it has already been used and defenses contrived against it, remains the element of surprise. A new gas which will permeate the enemy's masks is virtually a brand new weapon.

War knows no Marquis of Queensberry's rules. It is and always will be a knock down, drag out fight, kicking, gouging, and strangling holds used if not allowed. The only thing that prevents one army from using any particular method of warfare is the fear that the enemy will retaliate in kind and in worse degree.

If it agrees to abandon gas, the United States will agree to abandon a weapon humane as weapons go, a weapon especially fitted to its use, and besides will enter into a compact which no nation—except possibly itself—would think of keeping if a war came and the use of gas appeared importantly conducive to victory.

LAKE LEVELS A CENTURY AGO.

The sanitary district has quoted from the level reports and charts to show that the level of the great lakes rise and fall in cycles and that we are now passing through a period of low water. The evidence was convincing for any one who would take the trouble to examine it, but a number of influential persons in eastern cities seem not to have troubled to do so. The rise and fall in the lakes is a recurring phenomenon; the present period of low water could have been predicted confidently fifteen years ago. It was to come regardless of the diversion through the drainage canal, which can be held accountable at most for only six of the thirty inches or more of low water.

For those who find statistics difficult to handle, the Grand Haven Tribune has found evidence of another sort. The Tribune quotes an article entitled "Rise and Fall of the Lakes," from the New York Mirror of Sept. 22, 1888. It reads as follows: "The Buffalo Advertiser states that since the year 1825 Lake Ontario has risen, chiefly within the last three years, six feet and eight inches; and that on the first of July the water was two inches higher, making a rise of six feet and ten inches."

Lake Erie in the same period has risen about four feet. A similar rise of the lakes took place in the cold and wet seasons of 1815, 1816, 1817, but the water receded about two feet. In the succeeding years it continued to fall until 1821, after which year it remained nearly stationary until 1828.

"The fluctuation must cause some inconvenience in the location of wharves and stores. The fact that the waters have continued to rise until the present summer proves that a much greater degree of rain must have fallen throughout the great basin which supplies these lakes with water than in the vicinity of the western border of our state. Here the supply of rain within the last year has been less, we believe, than in any year within the last twenty."

That is contemporary evidence, a century and more old, of the cyclical fluctuation. It caused losses then, as now, to shipping interests. In the century intervening our country has become the richest in the world and our engineers have helped to make it so with their imagination and skill. Nevertheless the government has thus far refused to allow the engineers to take the question of lake levels in hand. Chicago has admitted that it is responsible in part for the lowering of the lakes and has offered an engineering plan and money to build controlling works which will raise the levels the six inches for which Chicago may be held liable and will compensate for the far greater losses from climate as well. With veins filled in the straits, the lakes can be held to any level which is desired and the cyclical fluctuation will no longer prove a source of annoyance to lake shipping.

Why the other lake states refuse to consider this proposal we cannot understand. Their refusal indicates they are less interested in maintaining the lakes at the desired depth than in defeating the Mississippi valley's project for a waterway to the gulf, for which the diversion at Chicago is needed.

MR. OLSON'S JOB.

United States District Attorney Olson delivered an impassioned address a day or so ago before the Methodist ministers of Chicago. He said the United States government was engaged in a relentless effort to drive from public office the "higher-ups" whom he defined as dishonest public officials.

Mr. Olson, we gather, was referring not to dishonest federal officials but to dishonest local officials. We agree with him that they, too, should be driven from office. If he has evidence against any of them, we hope he will not hesitate long to present it to the grand jury and, if possible, indict the offenders. The other day he indicted seventy-four men and women of whom no more than two could be classified as "higher-ups" by his or any other definition. We await further action by Mr. Olson with interest.

Meanwhile we should like to point out to him and to his superiors, whose orders he is no doubt carrying out, that the federal department of justice was not created to supervise local governments. Mr. Olson has a duty to enforce the Volstead law, but he is not the censor of Chicago's government. One unfortunate consequence of prohibition, a consequence that has been insufficiently emphasized, is the spread of the doctrine stated so frankly by Mr. Olson that the federal government is properly concerned with municipal affairs. Here is a direct assault upon local self-government. Our political theory has been that the country will be happiest and most prosperous in the long run if the communities which compose it are allowed to manage their own affairs in their own way. Local governments cannot achieve greatly if they cannot act greatly. The same principle, it might be added, is commonly applied by religious thinkers to individuals. The federal government is doing us no service when it seeks to undo our mistakes for us. If we err, we should pay for it. That is the only way we can ever hope to make any genuine advance in politics or morals.

Editorial of the Day

THE GRANGE AND PROHIBITION.

The National Grange, in session at Portland, Me., has sternly censured the sale of liquor on American ships and has reaffirmed its advocacy of rigid enforcement of the prohibition law. The innocent layman, however, should not jump to the conclusion that the National Grange is violently opposed to drinking. Its members, by one of those strange circumstances of politics, are practically exempt from the provisions of the Volstead law. That law contains clauses about older, and what these clauses mean, with their various interpretations, is that the farmer can have his barrel of cider but that the working man cannot have any. The stern resolutions of the National Grange, therefore, must be taken with a grain of benevolence. They merely mean that the members, as of yore, are in favor of prohibition for somebody else, not for them.

IMPROVEMENT OF HUMAN RACE.

I HAVE been reading Huntington's "Character of Races" under the pseudonym "The Character of Races." He shows the part that heredity has played in supplementing environment in building up and tearing down races and nations.

I read this book on a stock farm where registered Jersey cows, Berkshire hogs, and Leghorn chickens are bred. A breeder of thoroughbred horses just what he wants, knows how to get results, and will apply the rules of the game without fear or favor. He selects roosters that are right as to all points he is after and mates them with hens that are right as to egg laying and chicken raising, as well as to size, shape, and markings. Before many years he learns which fowls are prepotent, and he is using good divisions. In spite of all this effort, effort of a kind which has been kept up for a long time, a fair proportion of the chickens come irregular in markings or in other ways. Such poor specimens are never allowed to propagate. That's what we do.

While I was reading Huntington, an expert was working with the records of Jerseys as shown in the shelves filled with Jersey registration books. Huntington tells us that in breeding humans, breeds and races tend to run out. In Athens, Sparta, Iceland, and a few other places laws add customs have sanctioned good programs for the improvement of the race. Such races have risen to enviable heights.

Demosthenes said: "To you, O men of Athens, who are citizens by descent, it is not for you to sum of money should be preferred to respect for honor. The laws of Athens was that women superior in certain ways were compelled to marry either the eldest paternal uncle or the eldest cousin."

Huntington thinks one reason for the long continued power of the English people is their law of primogeniture. These

CORRECTION.

In a recent issue the question was asked whether an American born youth of alien parentage would have to take out his naturalization papers if his father was naturalized. The question should have read "foreign born youth" and the answer given was that he would not have to become naturalized if his father received full naturalization before the youth reached the age of 21.

This regulation of course does not apply to American born citizens. Any person born in the United States is entitled to the jurisdiction thereof in citizenship and entitled to all the rights and privileges of any United States citizen.

The Elephant and the Sentimental Ant.

A sentimental ant fell in love with an elephant. Every day she watched for his coming along the jungle path that led by her ant-hill. Laboriously she dragged straws and sand-grains from the path, that it might be smooth for the feet of her beloved. But always he passed—unaware. Knowing his fondness for peanuts, she climbed a tall peanut tree, and, cutting off a luscious specimen from the topmost bough, she descended with great effort rolled it to the path. Presently the elephant came along and seized the peanut, to which clung the little ant, hoping for at least a "Thank you, ma'am." But her harshful wriggling tickled the elephant's nose and he gave a big sneeze, which blew the poor little ant a long way from there. And she had to walk back home! SIMIAN JR.

WHEN THEY STROLLED from church to their homes down in old Plymouth town our Pilgrim Fathers really had it all over us. The pictures show the crafty red man lurking behind the trees ready to shoot an arrow right into the middle of some nice, fat pioneer, and a pioneer with an arrow through his little tummy couldn't really enjoy the turkey or the cranberry sauce. But anyhow the Indians were only armed with bows and arrows, while the gunmen savages who prowled our streets today are armed with machine guns, shotguns, and automatic pistols. . . . And the shuffling bootleggers lying in wait with their deadly hootch! Ah, we would much rather have been a Pilgrim Father and dodged arrows all the way home from church than to fall into a bootlegger's ambush. Come to think it over, the early settlers had it pretty soft.

TEACHERS AT THE BALL.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—In selecting partners for the Army and Navy boys the choice seems to be only among stenographers, bookkeepers, and teachers. Why discriminate against school teachers? We have some in our school who are pretty, charming, and in every way eligible. We have one who could give Norma Shearer a run for her money. These girls are young and fascinating. Yet no one seems to think that a school teacher is in the running at all. Why not? They are not all old and pedantic.

COMPARATIVE SCORES.

Wilmette, Ill., Nov. 21.—Mr. Sidney Keller's letter stating that Northwestern cannot be ranked with Michigan although both have won all games is purely, unreasoned, and unbacked. He is evidently one of those Michiganders who have been whining and complaining ever since their defeat by Northwestern last year.

ECCKERSALL'S TESTIMONY.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—We wish Mr. Keller would note that Walter Eckersall, who is unquestionably as well qualified as any one in the country to analyze the respective merits of football teams, says this morning: "There is no telling which would be the victor if Purple and Wolverine were to meet in a post-season game. Each team is made up of some sparkling players any one of whom might swing the tide of victory."

ARMY-NAVY DUTY DECORATIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—It is to be hoped that the design for street ornamentation for Army and Navy day, published in your columns, has not been definitely adopted. Every one knows that the flag should be allowed to fly free, and never gathered up at the end and tucked behind a shield. With all the material to draw on, national colors and devices and those of the state, army and navy, there is no lack of possible combinations in correct taste.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—We are thankful to Mr. H. R. Jamieson for a letter of the 18th which appeared in this column. Experience has shown us that certain seats in the Coliseum are unsuitable for the viewing of a hockey game. These undesirable seats are being blacklisted as fast as we can find them and thereafter are not again placed on sale. We have already removed a very large number, and shall continue to do so until every person present has a seat from which a good view may be had. It is our desire to accommodate as many patrons as possible, but we want not more than can be adequately cared for. Criticism and advice is asked from every hockey fan, and it is our earnest request that they let us know of anything that can be done to increase the interest or the comfort of our patrons. We have a record of the seats sold in the section which Mr. Jamieson refers to, but we do not know the names of the purchasers. We would appreciate it greatly if the

BERENGER QUILTS; FRENCH LEADERS DODGE U. S. POST

Poincare Seeks Envoy to Ease Up Debt Pact.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, Nov. 22. — Washington might be a plague spot, judging from the distance with which France's spectacular politicians, who generally are all afflitter when the embassy is vacant, view it today.

To a man, all the eligibles have refused the Poincare government's flattery offer to send them to America to fill the job left vacant by Victor Henri Berenger's embittered resignation today.

Louis Loucheur, France's richest man, who the semi-official newspaper Temps tonight announced as the next ambassador to Washington, telegraphed to The Tribune office from Lille that he would not take the job on a silver platter. The secret of all this is that neither he nor any of his fellow politicians care to endanger their public careers by taking a mission which is doomed to failure from the start.

France Wants New Debt Deal.

The Tribune learns Premier Raymond Poincare has abandoned his feeble intention to present the debt accord for ratification in their present form and is demanding that the next French ambassador worm from American reservations which the French government already has signally failed to obtain.

M. Berenger, author of the present debt accord, resigned because he saw the utter impossibility of making Washington budge an inch. With the ablest politicians refusing the task, the cabinet is looking to the country's professional diplomats, to whom one job is like another and who have no constituencies to be lost through failure.

The likeliest candidate is Comte de Chambrun, French minister to Greece, a descendant of Lafayette and a brother of the marquis, who was a member of the Joseph Callaux mission. M. Debilly, another foreign office man, also is mentioned.

Berenger Sees Self as Goat.
In his letter of resignation to Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, M. Berenger practically charges the foreign minister with complicity in making him the goat for the unpopular sentiment surrounding the debt pact, which the government, after nine months of shilly-shallying, apparently is ready to repudiate.

"I carried on long negotiations at Washington under control of the former government and in full agreement with it, and further, I was congratulated for it," the note reads. "The former ambassador several times last week went to Foreign Minister Briand and urged him, as premier, when the accord was signed, to block Premier Poincare's covert intention to sabotage the whole business."

The ex-ambassador is furious and is preparing to air the entire affair. He will show that although he was the negotiator, the Briand cabinet supervised and approved every move. M. Berenger claims Premier Poincare, in trying to sidetrack him, is taking orders from the powerful French steel trust which, with the new orientation in Germany through the "Cortel Dacier," is fighting tooth and nail any attempt to secure foreign credits from Anglo-Saxon countries. Louis Marin, who is the cabinet's bitterest opponent to the ratification, is the mouthpiece of the trust.

POLICEMAN W. T. WATTS DIES.
Policeman W. T. Watts, 42 years old, 6519 South Claremont avenue, for eleven years a member of the police force and assigned to detective duty at the New City station, died at his home yesterday after a long illness of kidney disease. He is survived by his widow.

WHITMAN STILL IS CRITICALLY ILL, BUT HOLDING OWN

John L. Whitman, former Joliet penitentiary warden, was described by his physicians as a very sick man, but perhaps holding his own at Ravens-wood hospital last night. His wife, Mrs. Anna G. Whitman, and Dr. Newton D. Lee, his nephew, who is the attending physician, have scarcely left his bedside during the two days that Mr. Whitman has been desperately ill. The patient is in a semi-stupor most of the time, and is being kept alive with drug injections, an earlier hospital bulletin said.

A leader among teachers of men - and a follower in the army of Adventure

A MAN of profound learning at whose feet students and scholars gather—this man appreciates and enjoys Adventure to the full. He loves to follow Adventure's heroes, to watch their struggles, listen to their homely philosophy, plumb the depths of their characters—almost help them fight their battles.

Such a man becomes the hero of a raid on the German trenches, goes with fellow explorers up the headwaters of the Amazon, sets sail to South Sea pearl fisheries, or ventures up the icy slope of a snow-capped mountain.

His ever receptive mind, unconsciously absorbs new knowledge of customs, traditions and habits of strange peoples. He knows that the stories in Adventure must always be accurate in detail; that they are written by men who have lived in the particular spot described and have perhaps experienced what the characters in their stories have experienced. This accuracy is a necessity, for Adventure is read by men who know. Its lovers include scientists and soldiers, lawyers and law-makers, hunters and explorers. Errors of fact rob the tales of their savor for such men, and so are avoided.

Do you love adventure? Do you ever care to live adventure? Then join the great army of readers of Adventure. Buy a copy today at your newsstand. Published twice a month. It costs 25 cents.

PRISON OR DEATH FOR SIX IS FINAL ISSUE TO JURORS

Attorneys Sum Up in Trial for Prison Murder.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Robert Lee, formerly sentenced to 1
year in the Reformatory by Judge Jacob Hill.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—This trial without a defense "was being held, to a jury today. One set of attorneys asking that the lives of six convicts be forfeited, another set asking merely that the six men be allowed to live.

At the windup of the trial of the six inmates of the Stateville penitententiary who escaped on May 5 after being sentenced to a life term for the murder of a juror, the jury today asked that the lives of six convicts be forfeited, another set asking merely that the six men be allowed
to live.

When it was the turn of the defendants to testify four of them were mute. One claimed he had tried to prevent the murder; another said he did not remember what happened May 5. The prosecution, as directed by Nathan F. Leopold Jr., whose name with that of Richard Loeb traveled the world over when Bobbie Frank was killed in Chicago two years ago, was called as a defense witness, but he was as mum as four of the men accused of killing Klein. It was admitted that the only benefit to be had from his appearance as a witness was in presenting a contrast—Leopold and Loeb, millionaire's sons, murderers for a thrill; six ignorant convicts, murderers for freedom; no hanging for Leopold and Loeb; why hang two Polish immigrants, three Americans, and a subnormal "man with a boyish face"?

Defense Ends Its Case.
"We have nothing else to offer," the attorneys for the convicts said to Judge Hill this morning.

Immediately, Assistant State Attorney James E. Burke was addressing the jury asking that the convicts be sent to pay the extreme penalty for the murder. And for a youth he was both eloquent and efficient, so much so as to win the praise of State Attorney Lehn.

Attorney John H. Garney strode to the jury box, explaining to the jury that he had been appointed by the court to act as counsel for the six men on trial.

"Reasonable doubt" was his theme in the thirty minutes of his address to the jury. One chance that the thirty men's witnesses had left a gap: It was in the time. The six convicts had appeared before 11 o'clock in the morning, the coroner's physician Fletcher said.

CHRISTMAS SEALS OUT TOMORROW; $225,000 IS SOUGHT

Millions of Christmas seals will be offered to Chicago and Cook county tomorrow by the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute at the opening of the annual drive to raise $225,000 by New Year's day.

Thousands of volunteer workers will sell the seals in the health centers of Cook county towns and in the public buildings of Chicago, and 400,000 seals will be sent out through the mail.
All the money raised will be used toward the cure and prevention of tuberculosis and for carrying on the general health program of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute.

Mrs. Theodore E. Sachs, superintendent of the institute, and Milton S.
Florsheim are in charge of the campaign.

Huge electric crosses calling attention to the drive will be placed on the Wrigley building and on several other tall buildings in Chicago.

He examined the body at 1 o'clock and Klein had been dead only an hour. A stab in the heart had killed the warden instantly, he said.

"Other convicts," Attorney Garney
suggested.

Attorney Joseph Kleg, appointed to defend but one convict, Charles Shader, took up the burden. Tomorrow the other lawyers will follow, and by Friday there will be a verdict.

MRS. ZALIMAS, ONCE FREED OF SLAYING, WEDS

(Picture on back page.)

Mrs. Bernice Zalimas, who spent months in the county jail before she was finally acquitted by a jury of the murder of her husband, was married yesterday afternoon to Joseph Patania, 31 years old, 4253 South Whipple street. The ceremony was performed by Judge Henry W. Mc-Ewen in the county building. Mrs.
Zalimas was charged with poisoning
her husband.

MAN, 67, DIES IN BRIDEWELL

Henry Striker, 67 years old, 3148 West 47th street, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital, having received a short sentence for disorderly conduct.

2 MORE STATES DEFEND ILLINOIS WATERWAY PLEA

Arkansas and Mississippi to Send Aid.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—With the admission today by the United States Supreme court of Arkansas and Mississippi as co-defendants, the lower Mississippi river valley of states in solidly behind Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district in their fight against the upper Mississippi valley and lake states who are seeking to halt the diversion of Lake Michigan water at Chicago.

Missouri, Kentucky, Louisiana, and Tennessee had already been granted leave to intervene in the controversy in behalf of Illinois and the sanitary district, and today Arkansas and Mississippi were granted leave to join with the latter in defending a suit for an injunction against the diversion brought by the state of New York, which may later be consolidated with the joint petition of Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, and Pennsylvania.

CANAL TRUSTEES TO PICK BOARD'S
NEW CHIEF TODAY

The new president of the sanitary district, which passes into Democratic control next month, probably will be selected today. Indications point to Trustee T. J. Crowe or Trustee-elect
George H. Porter as the probable successor to President Lawrence F. King, the only Republican candidate for trustee who was successful in the Nov. 2
elections.

Today's conference of the five Democrats who take over control of the board Dec. 6 will be held at the home of National Committeeman George E.
Brennan, who is the party chairman, is expected to have the last word in the decision.

FIND TREE HIDES INDIAN JOE, SAY FOUR MOTORISTS

(Picture on back page.)

Driving off the main highway and stopping on a cross road to rest constituted disorderly conduct in the village of Broadview, according to testimony given yesterday by witnesses in the criminal court. There Indian Joe Husker, "Gorilla" chief of police, and Edward J. Wardman, justice of the peace, are on full charge with conspiracy.

The witness were Joseph Kleg, Esq., 2430 South Cullerton park avenue, and Frank Smiley, as well as Rose and Beale Jacobson, twin sisters, living at 3948 South 38th street. They testified that about Indian Joe suddenly rising up from behind a tree and placing them under arrest for disorderly conduct. They testified that they had been driving in the country for several hours and decided to stop the machine for a few minutes before resuming their ride home.

They did not have the $26 bond money demanded, so their automobile was confiscated and they were forced to walk three miles to a bus. At a whispered court hearing a few days later they were freed.

ASHER HUNT FOR MISSING WIFE

The police were asked yesterday to search for Mrs. Thelma Ascher, 3800
Barry avenue, who failed to return home
Monday night after attending a church service. Her husband, Alfred Ascher, said they had no trouble.

Force Six to Lie Down, Then Rob Bank of $10,000

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 23.—[AP.]—Two young men, one unmasked, entered the Mechanics bank at Richmond, ten miles north of here, today and escaped in an automobile with $10,000. They forced six employees to lie on the floor while the bank was being robbed.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back, or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urines, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Wyeth Chemical Co., Inc., New York.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back, or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urines, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

GEN. AGUINALDO FORMS PARTY TO SUPPORT WOOD

Hero of Filipino Revolt
Tries to Oust Politicians

BY WALTER WILGUS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 23.—The organization of a new political party, presumably representing Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, veteran leader and supporter of Gov. Gen. Wood, was announced last night at a meeting of twenty politicians who are dissatisfied with the coalition government. Ramon Dionkio, who is friendly with Gen. Aguinaldo; Jose Melencio, the general's son-in-law; and Antonio Escamilla, Gen. Aguinaldo's secretary, are among the organizers.

Though the future of the party is problematical it evidently marks Gen. Aguinaldo's first formal entry into local politics since the days of the Philippine insurrection.

Queen Taken All Valued.
Gen. Aguinaldo for years has irked under the power of President of the Senate Manuel Quezon. He also has resented the fact that he was left without patronage and preference by politics. He has become an increasingly strong supporter of Gov. Wood ever since the politicians broke off with the governor general three years ago. He has made many speeches throughout the islands attacking Gen. Quezon and his clique.

Senator Quezon has been making desperate attempts to split the veterans of the revolution, who hitherto have been solidly behind Gen. Aguinaldo. He has succeeded in detaching a few of the higher officers of the veterans and also has induced a few posts of the veterans to secede from the main organization. It is believed the new party is Aguinaldo's answer to these attempts.

The probabilities are that the new party will not become a serious factor, as they will undoubtedly be unable to fight the Quezon-Owens machine at the polls.

Wood Ready for Test.
Gov. Gen. Wood left for Baguio by a special train tonight. He will be gone until after Thanksgiving. He says he will return for the meeting of the National Coal company on Dec. 6, at which time the test case is expected to arise over the legality of executive order No. 37 abolishing the board of control.

It is understood that a friendly suit has been arranged between the executive and the legislature to determine the legality of the order. Both sides are expected to appoint a director to fill the vacancies now existing and these two directors both will go into court.

AUSTRALIAN COURT UPHOLDS BARRING OF UNDESIRABLE ALIENS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SYDNEY, Nov. 23.—A Chinese named Ahon was the principal figure in an important case in the high court of Australia. The case was not only to determine whether Ahon was a prohibited immigrant, but raised the question of the powers of the Australian commonwealth to enforce the policy of a "white Australia."

Ahon was arrested at Perth, suspected of being smuggled into Australia. He failed to pass the dictation test, which is the convenient Australian method of excluding immigrants without raising a question of their color or nationality. It was ruled that Australia has the right to bar undesirable immigrants and Ahon was convicted as a prohibited immigrant.

THIEF IN HASTE DROPS RADIUM WORTH $10,300

Several leaden capsules containing radium worth $10,300, stolen presumably by a sufferer from cancer, were found yesterday afternoon in the office of Dr. R. C. Crain, 25 East Washington street, some hours after the lock on his desk had been forced.

The thief, it was discovered, had entered a warehouse to take $100 belonging to Mrs. Louise Ranger, an office employee. In his haste he dropped the precious tubes on the floor, apparently not noticing their loss. A number of empty capsules were left undisturbed, indicating the thief's familiarity with the metal.

Dr. Crain informed the police that he has been giving radium treatments to numerous cancer patients. He thinks that one of these, being familiar with the office, broke in during the night.

COURT ANNULS MURATORE PLEA OF PATERNITY

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Legal recognition by Lucien Muratore, the noted tenor, of Ariane Rouvier, in 1924, as his natural child by Marceline Rouvier, dancer, has been nullified by the Paris courts at the mother's request. The courts held that the recognition was invalid because Muratore was married at the time, having wed Lina Cavalieri, well known opera singer, in 1915.

The nullification action is understood to be preliminary to the institution by the girl's mother of proceedings against Muratore for taking Ariane, who is now 18, to Italy, where it is alleged that the tenor intended to arrange a marriage with a son of Mme. Cavalieri by a former marriage.

CARM THOMPSON HERE, BUT MUM ON PHILIPPINES

Says He'll Give Findings to Coolidge First.

The absence of the sphinx was almost garishly compared with that of Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, President Coolidge's special commissioner to the Philippines, who arrived in Chicago last night on his way home from a five months' study of the independence question and the political and economic conditions of the islands. He was met at the train by a group of Spanish-American war veterans and was given a reception at the Hamilton club.

To interviewers and an assembly that filled the club lounge, Mr. Thompson laid it down that until he places his report before President Coolidge with the next fortnight his lips are closed as tight as was King Tut's tomb.

Still Matter of Speculation.
"I know what you want me to talk about," he said, "but I just cannot talk about that. There is undoubtedly some speculation as to the nature of my report, in fact, I'm rather inclined to speculate about it myself."

"But, you know, when the boss sends you out to do a piece of work, the first thing is to report back to him."

Mr. Thompson adhered so closely to his policy of silence that he declined to affirm or deny or to comment in any way on a recent dispatch from Seattle purporting to summarize the recommendations he will lay before the President.

Escort from Ohio Here.

The war veterans who met him at the train were headed by Alfred B. Horder, Maj. Ralph H. Carroll, department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans of Ohio, headed a group from Ohio who came to Chicago to escort Mr. Thompson home. In the Thompson party were Mrs. Thompson, two secretaries, James Le Jappe and Grace M. Jones, and one Filipino servant. The travelers plan to leave for Cleveland today.

SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION 25 YEARS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in 3 weeks!

Read this remarkable testimonial to the power of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN over constipation:

"I prize your ALL-BRAN. I have been using it three weeks for constipation. I had had this trouble for 25 years and had tried everything, but could never get any relief—until since using your bran I am, truthfully say, that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

THOMAS A. HENLEY JR.
Bloody skin, eruptions, spots before the eyes, headaches—these all tell of the ravaging inroads of constipation. Don't let this dire disease send its poison through your body. Check it now and save your health and happiness!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation permanently if used regularly or money refunded. Eat two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Kellogg's is 100 per cent bran. Ready to eat. Delicious with fruit or cream—also in cooking. Served in all restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

A Life Saver for Your Car

EXCEPT in the case of accidents, cars die a gradual death. Dr. Clare E. Griffin of the University of Michigan has made some interesting estimates from statistics on the length of life of automobiles.

In his "Life History of the Automobile" he says that of any 100,000 automobiles beginning life at the first of any year, 220 will be junked the first year; 2,051 the second; 4,400 the third; 6,750 the fourth; 8,920 the fifth; and 10,670 the sixth; etc.

What sends some cars to the scrap heap while others of the same age are still serving a useful life?

Faulty lubrication in most cases. That is the most important single cause for the premature demise of automobiles.

Keep your car perfectly lubricated with Polarine and you will literally save its life. Polarine is the most perfect protection that could be devised for the motor of an automobile. Heat and friction cannot break its tough film. You can depend on Polarine to protect all the moving parts of the engine at all times.

Polarine is the result of years of experience and scientific work. It is one of the major products of an organization that is noted for its absolute dependability.

Polarine is a life saver for an automobile and a worry saver for the man who drives it. If you have had trouble with your car, you will appreciate the pleasure of driving a car that runs smoothly—a car that is properly lubricated.

Polarine will save your car from the junk heap and it will promote a smooth performance that will add immeasurably to the pleasure of motoring.

Have the crankcase drained out today, cleaned with Polarine Flushing Oil, and refilled with the particular grade of Polarine made expressly for your car.

FEDERAL T BOARD SET IN SWIFT C

Exceeded Its High Court

Washington, D. C., (AP)—The federal trade commission today exceeded its authority in ordering a divestiture of assets in other companies in which physical assets had been acquired under a court order today by the federal trade commission. The action is unlawful the court action other the federal trade commission.

Three cases involving commission under the Clayton act were decided today. The section questioned by one company another competing such control would competition. In one of involving the purchase of stock in the Nevada Meat company, the commission had ordered the company to divest itself of its assets in the Nevada Meat company. The court pointed out that the commission had exceeded its authority in ordering the company to divest itself of its assets in the Nevada Meat company.

In the other two, the commission had ordered the company to divest itself of its assets in the Nevada Meat company. The court pointed out that the commission had exceeded its authority in ordering the company to divest itself of its assets in the Nevada Meat company.

As all property as two companies were petitioner prior to the plaintiff it is evident relief could be obtained merely by direct divestment of value the court in the Wisconsin Electric.

FEDERAL TRADE BOARD SET BACK IN SWIFT CO. CASE

Exceeded Its Authority, High Court Rules.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The federal trade commission exceeds its authority in directing corporations to divest themselves of stock held in other companies in those cases in which physical assets have been acquired under a decision handed down today by the Supreme court of the United States. If such acquisition is unlawful the remedy lies in court action other than through the federal trade commission, the court said.

Three cases involving actions by the commission under Section 7 of the Clayton act were decided in a single decision. This section relates to acquisition by one company of stock in another competing company, where such control would tend to reduce competition. In one of the cases, that involving the purchase by the Western Meat company of California of stock in the Nevada Packing company of Nevada, the commission's action was approved.

Acquired in Advance of Order. In the other two, involving the purchase by Swift & Co. of stock in two competing companies, the Missouri Packing company and the Andalusia Packing company, and the purchase by the Thatcher Manufacturing company of stock in four competing corporations, the commission was held to have exceeded its authority.

In the Swift and Thatcher cases the court pointed out that the physical assets of the competing companies had been taken over at the time the orders were issued by the commission to divest themselves of stock control.

As all property and business of the two companies were acquired by the petitioner prior to the filing of the complaint it is evident that no practical relief could be obtained through an order merely directing petitioner to divest itself of valueless stock," said the court in the Swift case.

INCANDESCENT PRICE UPHOLD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—(AP.)—The General Electric company was declared by the Supreme court today to be following a lawful method in marketing electric incandescent light bulbs manufactured under patents controlled by it.

The government had charged the company, together with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and the Westinghouse Lamp company, with an unlawful conspiracy to monopolize interstate commerce and fix prices.

Chief Justice Taft, delivering the opinion, said the General Electric company had a right to fix the price of its patented articles at which the agents should sell and that the relation between the defendant companies was authorized.

SAFFORD, UNDER FIRE OF CLERGY, UPHOLDS LEAGUE

Tells of Dry Victories with Old Policy.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Dr. G. B. Safford, Illinois superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, declined yesterday to express himself regarding the request of the Congressional Ministers' union of Chicago that a state conference be called to consider the advisability of reorganizing the league and adopting new policies. The ministers voted on Monday to make such a request and to ask other denominational bodies to join with them.

"We have not yet received any official request from the Congressional ministers," said Dr. Safford. "No other ministerial bodies have acted. If the request for a state conference is formally made it will be submitted to the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league and a public reply and statement will then be made."

Dr. Safford said he was willing to present his views on some of the points which the Congressional ministers propose shall be discussed at a state conference. Dr. M. P. Borynton, pastor of the Woodlawn Baptist church and a member of the executive committee of the state Anti-Saloon league, also expressed a willingness to discuss the points on which reform is asked.

Safford Defends Policies.

"The present method of endorsing candidates has been the practice of the league for more than 30 years and by means of it we have won notable victories," Dr. Safford said. "We do not nominate candidates, we simply endorse the best ones, and also those who stand the best chance of winning, for it is legislation which is the crucial test. A man may be a wet in personal practice and vote dry politically knowing the evils of drink even by his own and experience."

"The name Anti-Saloon league is the one around which we have built up influence and prestige, and we are not inclined to change the name. If it is argued the Anti-Saloon league has accomplished its purpose and the saloons are gone, we reply the return of the saloon is still the purpose of the liquor interests."

Calls League Democratic.

Dr. Borynton declared the Anti-Saloon league is now thoroughly democratic in its organization. "All church organizations, Catholic, Jew and, Protestant, all young people's organizations are invited to the state convention, where the officers and the executive committee are elected by open ballot," he said.

Disclosures Cause Uproar in O'Brien-Harding Vote Canvass

Novel vote procedure in the Twenty-fifth precinct of the Second ward, where five colored clerks and judges, three women and two men, were in charge on election day, was revealed yesterday in testimony before the canvassing board in the election commissioner's office.

George F. Harding, Republican candidate for county treasurer, got 256 votes and Martin J. O'Brien, his Democratic opponent, received 54 votes in the precinct. It is the contention of the Democrats that votes from this precinct and many others in the colored districts should be thrown out, thus insuring O'Brien's election.

Testimony Causes Uproar.

Elijah J. Fisher, one of the judges, caused an uproar at the hearing when he described how voters were registered and allowed to vote.

"As I handed each voter a ballot, I asked them, 'Republican or Democrat?'" Fisher said, naively.

Then the storm arose. Attorneys for both factions shouted, some in protest and some with demands that Fisher be allowed to proceed. Personalities were exchanged and it was some minutes before order was restored.

"The question of fraud cannot be considered by this board," declared

Edward H. Wright, representing Republican candidates. "That is a matter for the County court in deciding on a petition for a recount. This board must accept the face of the returns and issue a certificate of election based on those returns."

"That position is absurd," retorted Attorney Henry Berger, representing O'Brien and the Democrats. "If it were true, all that would be necessary would be for the judges and clerks in some precinct to put down 100,000 tallies for their favorite candidates and your board would have to accept such a farcical vote."

Helped Voters to Vote.

William Hayes, a clerk, aroused another commotion when he stated that a mysterious Miss Wilson, who he said was assistant precinct captain, had been allowed to write names of alleged voters in the poll books.

"What were you doing?" he was asked.

"Helping voters to vote," was the answer and again there were spirited protests and a verbal uproar. The board ruled that this line of questioning should be left to a court passing on fraud in the election and no further questions were asked.

Although there were 416 votes counted in the precinct, the names of only 364 voters were on the poll books. The judges and clerks couldn't explain that.

"HELLO, THANKSGIVING"

By GEORGE H. CAPPER

As we labor in a land of plenty, it is indeed the labor of love.

The sturdy tiller of the soil—vying with the lark—bursts forth in early morning anthem.

Abundant crops, a promising price situation, and more scientific methods of production give to Thanksgiving a subtle charm.

The rapid growth and development of our towns and cities, assures steady employment and a "full dinner pail."

Huge buildings rear their heads upward as if to push the skyline farther away.

The automobile industry is a husky, well-nurtured youngster, and already ranks among our foremost American manufacturing enterprises.

Indeed, big business booms under the material and spiritual guidance of man.

New thought, new ideas elevate the standards of living, and are welcomed in the market-place of the human heart.

Capper & Capper Stratford Clothes are an achievement in better clothes-making. They enjoy the distinction of being the "finest" of American manufacture, and fit snugly in a niche all their own.

And so, hello, Thanksgiving—you're a wonderful day. You give us opportunity to reflect—and return thanks for the manifold blessings we enjoy.

ULSTER TO FIGHT CHANGE IN TITLE OF BRITISH KING

See Scheme to Force It Into Free State.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)
LONDON, Nov. 23.—The British imperial conference ended this afternoon at a session devoted to constitutional speeches, and an address to King George, in which the premier expressed their fidelity to the crown.

The conference spokesman announced that hereafter the dominion premiers will be known as "king's premiers," as a step in establishing the new regime of co-equality under which the dominions have been given the status of autonomous communities within the empire.

Discussing the new imperial relationships, the spokesman said that whereas before the empire was embodied as a hub, which was England, and spokes, which were the dominions, now the relationship is better compared to a spider's web, with all parts more closely knit.

Opposition to Decisions Develops.
Opposition to some of the decisions of the conference is already developing. Sir James Craig, prime minister of northern Ireland; Finance Minister J. M. Pollock and Minister of Labor J. M. Andrews are starting from Belfast for London tonight to protest against the new title of King George as king of Ireland, ignoring the separate existence of northern Ireland. The Belfast press has started a campaign against the settlement, which, it is alleged, seems to indicate the intention to force Ulster to unite with the Free State at some future time.

This Tribune learns Indian national opinion is much excited about the commission of India from the list of self-governing dominions. The Indian residents in London are arranging a protest meeting and it is reported that India, that a nation-wide protest is being organized. India's delegates at the conference were Lord Birkenhead, secretary of state for India, and the maharajah of Burdwan, who is not a ruling prince, but merely a large land owner and entirely under British domination.

May Reorganize Foreign Office.
One result of the conference now being discussed is the possible merging of the dominions office in the foreign office. Nine-tenths of the communications between the dominions and the British government are on foreign affairs and when British envoys are established in the dominion capitals they will have to be men with experience in foreign affairs who can only be found in the foreign office staff.

Under the present organization they would be appointed by the dominions office, carry on communications with this office, which would then pass on the communications to the foreign office, receive a reply from the foreign office and retransmit the reply to the envoys in the dominions.

It has been suggested that this waste of effort could be cut by making the dominions office a department of the foreign office. This would also place the nationalists of Ireland, Canada, and South Africa by emphasizing their positions if independence.

Release 'Rum Ship' Seized 140 Miles Off U. S. Coast

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The German auxiliary barkentine Carmen, seized 140 miles off New York, was ordered released today. It will be conveyed out of port tomorrow morning.

The German consul-general in New York, was ordered by the German embassy to investigate the vessel's seizure. The ship's papers were regular, a member of the German consulate told federal officials after examining them. The release followed.

It had been reported that there were 100,000 cases of whiskey aboard. Valued at booting prices, the cargo was worth $5,000,000.

Ship Loaded in Hamburg.
In Washington it was said that seizure of the vessel 140 miles from New York was regarded by officials of the German embassy as conflicting with the smuggling treaty of two years ago between the American and German governments. The embassy assumed the Carmen was loaded in the free port of Hamburg, which is being used by British distillers for their shipments abroad, especially to Canada.

In shipping circles here tonight the opinion was that the coast guard had mistaken the identity of the ship.

Hoovering Along Coast.
The Carmen, it was said, had been hovering along the Atlantic coast for the last two weeks, at times coming within thirty miles of various points near New York harbor. It was said that the Carmen had not landed any liquor.

The coast guard still has its other "prize," the Lloyd Royal Belge liner Mercur, which arrived from Antwerp Sunday with a cargo of "steel and hams." The vessel's cargo was seized early today when it was discovered the "hams" were 1,200 bottles of champagne and cordials.

CASES FROM EAST AND WEST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Cases from both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard were drawn up today by the Supreme court to furnish examples of what can and cannot be done with vehicles seized for illegal transportation of liquor.

Deciding a case from Washington state, the court held that when a liquor-laden automobile is taken in under the prohibition law, the government can not later invoke the drastic provisions of the old internal revenue laws in such a way as to deprive innocent owners of the vehicle, such as automobile companies selling on the installment plan, of all right to seek restoration of their property.

Another decision, in a case appealed from Rhode Island, dealt directly with the relationship between states and federal authorities when they both are concerned in a rum seizure.

The court decided that the Motor Boat Ray of Block Island, captured by federal authorities when they both are concerned in a rum seizure.

CRIOSSANT CALLS LICENSE HEARING A "PERSECUTION"

Gries He Won't End Life
Over Florida Deals.

Apparently distracted by the admitted demoralizing effect on his business of the hearings before the real estate commission of the state department of registration in connection with his request for a real estate license, G. Frank Crioissant, under cross-examination early last night shouted:

"My business is shot to pieces, but I'm not going to commit suicide. I'm too brave for that. Seven Florida real estate men have jumped in the water, but not me."

Then he added: "The only reason I'm fighting for a license is so that I can make enough money to pay back those who have lost. I want to protect my lot owners and you are persecuting me."

Day of Lawyers' Disputes.
Crioissant's outburst came at the end of a day long series of disputes between attorneys and title with the commission. Attorney Max Murdock had put on the stand three women purchasers of property in Crioissant's Boca Raton Florida development.

Following the hearing of their complaints, W. H. Noble, attorney for the state, tried to prove that Crioissant did not hold legitimate title to the property. Introduction of such matter was deemed unfair by Berthold Cronson, Crioissant attorney, who said that a law suit was pending in New York which would bring out the truth about the title. Revealing the status at the present time might damage Crioissant's sale, Cronson asserted.

Murdock began to question Crioissant in regard to the title. Cronson called his client aside for consultation. When Murdock resumed his examinations, Crioissant made his statement about suicide.

Tells of Trustee Election.
Crioissant testified that he was elected trustee of the Boca Raton syndicate at a meeting of the members. The commission sought to learn the date of his election, in order to determine whether he conferred with attorneys in regard to the title of the

207,825 MEN DRILLED AT ARMY CAMPS LAST SUMMER, U. S. REPORTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—During the summer training period this year a total of 207,825 persons engaged in military training in the continental United States, figures just completed by the war department show.

This total comprised 150,305 national guard; 17,005 organized reserves; 5,245 members of reserve officers training corps attending summer camps in addition to their school training, and 34,194 young men who attended Citizens military training camps.

On July 31, 1926, the strength of the National guard was 179,981; that of the organized reserves 108,234, while at the completion of the last academic year the enrolled strength of the reserve officers training corps, was 105,778.

property before or after assuming the trusteeship. Attorney Noble said that if the conference took place after the election he wished to prove by that fact that Crioissant had not taken sufficient precaution to protect his purchasers.

Crioissant said that he had no abstract or guaranty policy, but that if the commission would share his expense for a trip to Florida, he could produce legitimate record of ownership.

EDGEWATER WILL HAVE $5,500,000 TWIN APARTMENT

BY AL CHASE.

One of the most interesting apartment projects ever proposed for the Edgewater shore line, both architecturally and tentatively speaking, is the $5,500,000 twin flat buildings announced by Charles F. Henry for the northeast corner of Sheridan road and Rosemont avenue, extending east to the future western boundary of Lincoln park.

The two structures, each to be twelve stories, will contain a total of 600 suites of three, four, and five rooms. They'll also have a combination garage for the tenants to house 200 cars.

The most interesting architectural angle to Mr. Henry's plans is the unusual use of setbacks he contemplates for the lake shore elevation of the eastern unit. Instead of merely setting back the upper story, he intends starting the setbacks probably at the sixth floor, which means that all the tenants of the upper six floors would have a terrace along their front windows overlooking the lake.

Not only would this enable the architect to design one of the most interesting and unusual apartment buildings in Chicago but it would give many of the tenants a layout unique so far as Chicago is concerned.

Mr. Henry, one of Streetville's active builders, bought the site, now improved with one of Sheridan road's attractive residences, from Herbert C. Schimp for a reported $400,000. The property fronts 200 feet on Sheridan, 200 feet on Rosemont, and 200 on the east. This eastern line eventually will be improved with a wide boulevard which will be the boundary of Lincoln park.

The property just acquired by Mr. Henry will be bisected by a primary north and south thoroughfare, thus giving each twelve story unit three street frontages. The names of the architect will be announced later. Richard Connell was broker, with Jack McCarthy, of the Bills Realty company, as associate broker. Alexander Marshall and Bonneschein, Berkson, Lautman & Levinson were attorneys.

FOUR STRONG TACKLES

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
When the Army and Navy clash in their traditional game on Soldiers' field Saturday afternoon the result will depend largely upon the general play of the two powerful eleven.

In present day football so much depends upon the tackle that a team's offensive and defensive power may be gauged largely upon the ability of its players in these positions. The tackle is practically a secondary end. He is supposed to assist his flank player in smashing interference on end sweeps and is held partially responsible for plays sent just inside his position.

Must Be Aggressive.
The tackle must be aggressive and not easily boxed by opposing ends. They must be able to use their hands expertly on defense and never be charged back or blocked out of a play. They must vary their charges continually and they should know when it is best to play a loose or tight line.

On offense the tackle is supposed to work to do when the play goes out side.

Fortunately the Army and Navy have great tackles, players who are among the best in the country. Capt. Wickhorst and Eddy will play in these positions for the Navy and Saunders and Sprague for the Army. This quartet has been largely responsible for the fine records made by both teams.

Wickhorst Great Player

Wickhorst is without doubt one of the country's leading forwards. He is tall, rangy, and wiry, just the type for this important position. He solves plays quickly, moves to the points of attack with speed, and can tackle. Eddy is also a splendid tackle and should not be far behind his captain in the general play of the position.

Saunders, the Army right tackle, is another of the outstanding forwards of the year. Against Notre Dame he was in the thick of the struggle at all times. He was often down the field under kicks and during his share of the tackling. When Flanagan of Notre Dame broke loose for the run which gave his team a victory over the Army, he was sprung off Saunders, the outside left tackle. Sprague, however, had the play partially stopped and two Army players had excellent opportunities to stop Christy before he squirmed loose. When the play was sent at him, Sprague charged in, smashed the interference, but was unable to nail the runner. Flanagan then pivoted out of the grasp of two Army tacklers, floated out toward the side line and cut down the side of the field for the touchdown.

CHICAGO CHESS LEAGUE STARTS ANNUAL PLAY

The Chicago City Chess league started its annual winter play with 15 teams competing. The results of the first rounds follow: The King Chess club, youngest member of the league, was defeated by the Chicago club, 6½ games to 2½; City Club of Chicago drew with the Swedish club, four games each; Northwest Chess club won from the Illinois Bell Telephone company; the Commonwealth Edison company beat the Automatic Electric company.

The scheduled match between the University of Chicago and German Chess club has been postponed.

Oosterbaan Is New Michigan Grid Captain

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Bennie Oosterbaan was elected captain of Michigan's 1927 football team at a meeting of the Wolverine squad this afternoon.

Oosterbaan, who comes from Muskegon, Mich., has followed up a brilliant high school career in athletics with an equally bright record in college. Last year he played on the championship Michigan eleven, which Coach Fielding H. Yost called "the best football team I ever have seen," and was chosen all-American end by the majority of sport writers.

EARLY GAINS IN WHEAT LOST AS COVERING CEASES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy short covering was on in December wheat, which advanced that delivery to around 75¢ under the May at one time, compared with 5¢ under recently, with the finish at 3¢ discount against 1¢ on Monday. Trade was heavy at times, with many buying December and replacing with sales of May, and also the reverse.

There was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the strength early, with prices up 1/4¢ over Monday's finish, with December touching 1.15 1/2, but when the buying let up the market broke rapidly, with the lowest prices of the day made shortly before the close. Final trades were at net losses of 1/4¢ to 1/2¢. December closed at 1.14 1/2; May, 1.13 1/2; July, 1.12 1/2.

Corn held within a range of 1/4¢ and closed 1/2¢ higher, with December 75¢ and May 74 1/2¢. Oats lost 1/4¢ to 1/2¢, with December 45¢ and May 44 1/2¢, while rye was 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower, with December 70¢ and May 69 1/2¢.

News Favors Wheat Bears.

General run of news was in favor of lower prices, and while it had little effect early, a weakened technical position was disclosed with the December touching 1.15 1/2, and the best support on the break came from holders of bids, with many of the locals who bought early unloading as the way down. Buenos Aires was easy and 1/4¢ lower, with weather generally fair except in the province of Buenos Aires, where it was cloudy. Winnipeg, after showing strength early on prospects of a Canadian rail strike, closed weak and 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower. Liverpool was unchanged to 1/4¢ higher.

Short Covering in Corn.

Short covering was on in corn, partly confined to a leading local professional, and with some new investment buying through commission houses about offset the effect of the decline in wheat. Trade, however, was largely of a local character, with a lack of the aggressive selling so much in evidence the last few days. Weather conditions over the belt were favorable, but country offerings to arrive small, and cash handlers expect the movement will be limited for some time to come, regardless of weather conditions. Nothing was heard regarding export demand.

Longs sold out early and prices averaged lower despite the firmness in corn. There was exchanging between December and May at 1/4¢ difference. Cash demand continues slow. Bulk of the trade in rye was in spreading between that grain and wheat and between the various deliveries. The seaboard reported no export inquiry of consequence.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Export demand for wheat at the seaboard was very early, but the late decline in futures permitted 300,000 to 400,000 bu being worked in all positions. Demand for rye was slow.

Chicago handlers sold 20,000 bu wheat, 10,000 bu corn, 50,000 bu oats, and 3,000 bu barley to the domestic trade with 100,000 bu corn and 50,000 bu oats to go to stock. Lake freight are firm at 2¢ to Buffalo, compared with 1¢ recently.

No change of consequence was made in the spot wheat basis here or in the southwest and northwest. No. 2 red on track here was 1 1/2¢ under with No. 3 hard 5/8¢ over, and No. 3 hard December prior to 5¢ over. Offerings of each corn were small in some time, but demand was not aggressive and the basis here unchanged. No. 2 grades sold at 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ over December; No. 3 grades, 1 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ over, and No. 4 grades, 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ over the futures. New No. 3 yellow sold at 87 1/2¢; No. 4 yellow, 86 1/2¢; No. 5 yellow, 85 1/2¢; and No. 6 yellow, 84 1/2¢.

Local markets were unchanged to 1/4¢ over. No change was shown in the spot oats basis. No. 2 white sold at 1 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ under the futures. No. 3 white, 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ under the futures. No. 4 white, 1 3/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ under the futures. No. 5 white, 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ under the futures. No. 6 white, 1 3/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ under the futures.

How Do Your Sales in The 49th State Compare with This Record of Continuous Growth?

*The St. Louis Globe-Democrat is St. Louis' Largest Daily
- - - now by an Even Wider Margin*

The circulation of The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has climbed to a new high peak of advertising value.

238,594 families now look to The Globe-Democrat each day for the news of the world and buying suggestions.

How does your sales increase in The 49th State compare with the gains of The Globe-Democrat?

Are you out to make 1927 a bigger, better year? The Newspaper of The 49th State can help to send your sales curve upward.

It covers this responsive, accessible market as no other advertising medium even claims to do. Reaches 27,289 more families than the second St. Louis daily.

It covers St. Louis, plus the whole vast area which this great metropolis serves—radius 150 miles.

This is the real St. Louis market. Nothing less.

In the words of Ralph B. Wilson, vice-president of The Babson Statistical Organization:

"In the case of St. Louis, the city is a real economic center, the focus of countless industrial, commercial and financial forces representing the economic life of a whole vast area. For this reason the situation and outlook in St. Louis has an importance far beyond city boundaries."

In 198 thriving 49th State towns of more than 1,000 population 20 per cent or more of the families read the daily Globe-Democrat.

Here is coverage which no amount of money can buy in any other St. Louis newspaper.

The Service and Promotion Department and the Research Division of The Globe-Democrat have obtained some remarkably helpful selling information for advertisers interested in building business profitably in The 49th State. Probably no other newspaper in America has attempted a market trade analysis of comparable scope and value to the advertiser.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of completely liquid Aroclor; apply it at night after retiring; use enough to thoroughly wet your hair, rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight and by morning more, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone. After three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be soft, fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

To get liquid Aroclor at any drug store and it never fails to do the work.
